

The difficulties were great and manifold, certainly, but they ought not to prove insuperable. The dreaded and complicated Eastern Question will have to be settled one day; why defer it now? The more imminent season hoped for is scarcely likely to arrive. The great Powers have tasted sufficiently of the horrors of war lately to be

Mr. Denney appeared for the prisoners. Evidence as to the shipments of tea was given by Mr. W. de Ruusset, of the P. & O. Company. Mr. Denney addressed the Court for the defence, and urged that there was no direct evidence that the prisoners had stolen the tea.

that as her conduct was not strictly in accordance with the laws and usages of society, presence in Ningpo city was required. In a fearful eye, she carefully took leave of her relations and friends, and accepted the ticket placed at her disposal. I am told the girl is fair and handsome, but then "handsome is who handsome doth." Her future life will be short, as it is said she will have to undergo the string operation for her malady.—Shanghai Courier.

Mr. Sheppard, that hearing a noise, he inquired of his companion, and was told whose Customs officer was attempting to seize some "Olinian" passengers who had come on board and take tickets for that night. He conferred at the Customs, and under various provocation he asked the man's face, and gave him a slight cuff. Of course he had no right to do this, and the U.S. Consul fined him $5, and then the Court.

out to a most enormous slave. This is a great species of slavery, and the present of Siles, who calls himself an enlightened and professes to regard keenly the of his subjects, ought to devote himself loyally to their final and complete extirpation.
Siles, interested in the more urgently of his country, he naturally deems it his duty to free slaves and liberate, but even those of him, who without any real whatever of and, find themselves, on arriving at on, they are able to work, enslaved to and." The remains, with portions of the are, are now in the possession of Canon of Durham, antiquary, who says they were buried five hundred years before Christ, in the year 1374 the Legion of Hannibal leaves seven grand crosses, 22 grand 8 commanders, 319 officers, and 4,000 non-combatants. Besides these, there grand for various reasons from the list, of crosses, one grand officer, three com-six officers, and 40 companions of the

This image shows a vertical strip of a document page. The left side is a dark, textured binding edge. The right side is a white page area. Faint, illegible text is visible across the page. A small, dark, rectangular mark is present near the top of the page.

